Describing a Scene

Today we are going to be looking at setting descriptions. We are going to be using this scene in the film to write a description.

Use the picture on the slides, or watch the film clip again to help you.

Describing a Scene

1. Write a sentence to describe an object in the scene on the first slide, using words related to colour and shade.
2. Write a sentence to describe the setting using words related to colour and shade.
3. Describe a noise you might be able to hear.
4. Write down what is happening in the scene.

For an example of what to do before you have a go, look at the next slide. This slide shows the same activity using a different image called Flood by Alvaro F Villa.

Flood

Your sentences

Notice all the fantastic adjectives and adverbs they have used! They have also used an expanded noun phrase and fronted adverbial. Can you spot it?

Object describe an object using words related to colour and shade	A bright light shines on the side of a shadowy grey and white house.
Setting describe the setting using words related to colour and shade	The landscape is submerged in murky, brown floodwater.
Noise describe a noise you might be able to hear	The only sound is the water gurgling and lapping against the forlorn house.
Happening write down what is happening in the scene	Slowly, gradually, inevitably the grey building is invaded by the irresistible force.

Your turn!

You can print the activity worksheet from our class page or you can just write the sentences in your book with the title “Setting Description”.

Object describe an object using words related to colour and shade
Setting describe the setting using words related to colour and shade
Noise describe a noise you might be able to hear
Happening write down what is happening in the scene

Final task:

Now, can you put the sentences together...

Now you have written the sentences, you have all you need to make an amazing setting description paragraph. All you need to do is put them together! Have a go in your home learning books. An example using the example sentences is below:

A bright light shines on the side of a shadowy grey and white house. The landscape is submerged in murky, brown floodwater. The only sound is the water gurgling and lapping against the forlorn house. Slowly, gradually, inevitably the grey building is invaded by the irresistible force.

... and edit to make it more exciting!

A bright light shines on the side of a shadowy grey and white house as the landscape is submerged in murky, brown floodwater. The only sound is the water gurgling and lapping against the forlorn house. Slowly, gradually, inevitably the grey building is invaded by the irresistible force.
